The Access Center

College Access Unit

Upward Bound 17 Academic Instructor

The Upward Bound Math/Science program at Colorado State University is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education. The program is designed to help participants generate the academic skills and motivation necessary for success in post-secondary education. Participants are talented high school students who come from low-income backgrounds where neither parent has earned a bachelor's degree. These students face systemic disadvantages by reason of socio-economic circumstance, lack of educational access, and other barriers.

For six weeks, Upward Bound provides an intensive, hands-on summer program. The Upward Bound 17 program is a combined residential and non-residential program. The summer takes place both on the Colorado State University campus in Fort Collins, CO, and in Denver at the CSU SPUR campus. Approximately 25 participants will receive: (1) instruction in language arts, world languages, mathematics, ACT/SAT Preparation, and laboratory science, (2) advising in the areas of educational and career opportunities, and (3) exposure to enrichment activities designed to promote personal and social growth.

The Upward Bound Academic Instructor is a part-time Upward Bound staff member within the College Access Unit of The Access Center. Instructors develop a class curriculum, instruct students in one of the four required content areas (language arts, laboratory science, mathematics, and world language), and assist in supporting The Access Center Mission: "consistent with Colorado State University's land grant mission to make education accessible to all persons and groups, the Access Center develops the talents of those who have been historically underrepresented in postsecondary education (first generation, low-income, ethnically and racially diverse, and non-traditionally aged). By utilizing effective practices, we provide quality services to communities, individuals, and institutions, resulting in student success and exemplary programs guided by an ethic of community and project accountability."

Responsibilities

All applicants should clearly demonstrate in their application: experience with, and commitment to, underrepresented, ethnically diverse, and disadvantaged* youth, as well as expertise relevant to the subject for which they are applying. Applicants must also be able to work closely with the entire staff and be available for program events, including mandatory staff training and weekly staff meetings, facilitation of activities, and supporting students during study sessions.

Academic Instructors are responsible for supervising Upward Bound students during class time through the six-week summer program. The instructor's primary role is to facilitate a classroom that fosters a love of learning and facilitates a culture of respect and student growth. For this environment to develop, UB instructors make healthy connections with student participants, hold all students accountable to Upward Bound behavior expectations, support students through tutoring, and may include facilitation of activities outside the classroom.

"Disadvantaged," according to the U.S. Department of Education, signifies an individual who meets low- income guidelines and who is a potential first-generation college student. A "first generation" individual is a person whose parents have not earned a baccalaureate degree.*
